

So, what is the Town Hall theatre you say? Is it just a place for a two-penny play?
Is there more to this place than the murals and decor? Are there things going on, on the stage and the floor?
What's all the buzz, what's all the fuss? What do you offer for people like us?
Well I'll tell you a bit if you'll pay me some mind, There's more to this building in front and behind!

It starts with a board who are kind of obsessed, theatre is in us, and we are so blessed.
We meet once a month to debate and discuss, to get things a running - it's quite wondrous!
There's scheduling, and planning, and hiring a crew, the pay is non-existent, but the rewards are our glue!
A year in advance we arrange what we'll do, and hope we can fulfill so these dreams do come true

Sometimes it's a group who will sing like Shout Sisters this fall, There's even some talk of a New Year's Masquerade Ball
There's been MT Pockets, and the Brothers Wolfgang, they draw such a crowd, entertain with a bang!
Last year we had our thirtieth year, and a musical extravaganza was done, Dear Deb DeJong wrote it and boy was it fun!!
We've done serious stuff like Shakespeare's Will, and lighter series, like the Manor, were on the playbill.

We did Blithe Spirit, a mammoth undertaking, three hours to perform, and certainly worth making
There were so many musicals, comedies and plays, that sometimes we lived here all of our days but what you don't see are the sweat and the tears, the back-breaking work, the worries the fears
The countless hours at rehearsals, the building of sets, the really hard labour that theatre vets

We have improv classes, the cost is just free, plus we will have a professional group you can see
We will have classes for children starting this fall, it soon will be advertised, and held in this hall
A variety is what we try to bring here, to entertain your heart, a laugh or song for your ear
but it takes work to bring it all to life and to thrive, to keep our dear Town Hall Players theatre alive

It means putting your life on hold for some months too and then devoting your time, whether actor or crew
We are in this for you, and the audience is king, so come out and see us, to laugh, listen or sing
Our hearts are so into this, our pride is there too, to deliver a show just for audiences like you,
It's in our blood, in our souls too - this building, this theatre, why it's what we do!!
